What can WE do?

What's your hope for your children? Hopefully, it includes a lifetime of faith. Nothing less: Engaging Kids in a Lifetime of Faith, by Jana Magruder, gives 9 research based actions parents have done to positively influence the long-term spiritual condition of their kids. Why not pick something from the list to add to your home this month?

1. Parents participated in missions trips as a family as their kids were growing up.
2. Parents participated in ministry or service projects with their kids as they were growing up.
3. Parents frequently shared Christ with unbelievers as their kids were growing up.
4. Parents personally read the Bible several times a week or more as their kids were growing up.
5. Parents encouraged teen children to serve in the church.
6. Parents typically asked forgiveness when they messed up as their children were growing up.
7. Parents encouraged their children's own unique talents and interests as they grew up.
8. Parents attended churches that emphasize what the Bible says as their kids were growing up.
9. Parents taught their children to tithe as their kids were growing up.

We will also be collecting the following toiletries for campers who are in need of these items while at Camp:
